Weather of Concern

- Isolated thunderstorms will be possible across Northwest California this afternoon. Chances for thunderstorms increase Sunday and beyond, with best chances across interior mountains.

Active Weather Warnings, Watches and Advisories by County:

- http://www.wrh.noaa.gov/sto/brief/www_bc_cal.php - Temporarily unavailable.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

 Scattered Thunderstorms with Moderate Rainfall NW Mountains Through Midday Today and Eastern Areas All Day Today ***

 Isolated Daily Thunderstorms with Moderate Rainfall Northern and Eastern Areas Sunday Through Wednesday ***

Low pressure off the central CA coast is pulling monsoon moisture into the Northern California region. Temperatures will be near normal with fairly high humidity for the next several days. The low will be near the northern CA coast into the middle of next week then weaken and become a trough late in the week. A few thunderstorms are expected in northwestern areas early today, but eastern areas will see thunderstorm activity all day. Rainfall produced by thunderstorms will be greater, lowering the potential for significant fire development. A direct hit from a storm could produce 0.25-0.50 inches of rainfall. Daily wet thunderstorms will continue in northern and eastern areas through Wednesday, and the potential for significant fires will remain below high risk criteria due to moderate rainfall. New fire starts or holdovers and potential for periods of rapid fire spread will continue to be in place, however.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

A series of weak low pressure areas will form off the Northern California Coast and push inland bringing scattered showers and thunderstorms to the Sierra and Northern Deserts through the end of next week. These low pressure areas will also cause temperatures to remain near normal through the end of next week, with upper 70s and 80s across the mountains and upper 80s and 90s in the valleys. Minimum humidity will be above 20% across the region this weekend and then lower some next week, but most of the area will remain above the 15% critical level. Westerly afternoon winds of 15 to 25 mph with gusts to 40 mph will continue to surface across the desert passes through the end of next week.
